JULIA FULLERTON-BATTEN
He Gets Us

The act of washing one another's feet is a beautiful human expression. It evokes reconciliation and peace. It's submissive, permissive and inclusionary. The photographs capture the humility, respect and dignity we, as humans, could show each other – even to those we may not agree with.

MOUNEB TAIM
Living With War

While the sounds of clashes and shelling were audible and warplanes in the sky, the peace player would play the bar to make the children feel safe. It was a scene mixed between pain and hope. It was the determination and determination of people to live. Maybe the scene seems natural and routine to them because they are used to it, after more than 13 years of ongoing conflict in Syria.
